

Learning about Islam and the Arab World

LAUSD Salary Point Class: Open to all LAUSD K-12 teachers and HHS professionals;
also open to all interested educators, including non-LAUSD teachers

This professional development class will help educators work more effectively with their students, and promote cultural, ethnic, and religious understanding in the classroom. You'll come away with a better understanding of:

- The Arab World and Islam, including Muslims and Arabs in North America
- Diversity and stereotypes
- History and U.S. Relations with the Arab World
- Women, children, and families in Islam
- Music and culture of the Arab Middle East

In addition, you'll receive

- Information on teaching resources and strategies;
- Updates on regional issues;
- One LAUSD salary point after full attendance and homework assignments are completed. (Meets multicultural requirement.)

This two-day professional development workshop will be led by LAUSD experienced educators Richard Jessel and Rosa Melendez, along with other subject matter experts on Islam and the Arab World.
